From Our Oven Correspondent. NEW YORK, Feb. 11, 1870.

Among the eccentric businesses which thrive in New York is that of preserving the flowers which decorate the remains of dead people While the body is laid out a note arrives from some fashionable flower preserver -- or from one who desites to become fashionable-soliciting your patronage. He appeals to your emotions as a mourner, whether you do not wish a floral commemoration of the unbappy occasion, and offers to make a nest job of it, cheap. He tracks out your address by means of the advertisement, and often waylays you as you return from the funeral. Making his assault upon you In the moment when you are least in the humor for bargaining and worldliness, and under the specious pretense of sympathy, he gets custom from the brazen cheekiness with which he sets to work. He is an institution peculiar to New York, and this winter has driven better bargains and more of them than ever before. The bland and beefy Brown, of Grace Church, has done much towards making fashionable funerals an intelerable nuisance. The flower preserver takes up the thread where Brown dropped it, and twists it around you with the dexterity of the accomplished fraud. The Inneral florist is alone a sufficient drain upon a liberal mourner's purse. The flower preserver perfects the work, and charges a monstrous price for embalming the bouquets for which you have already extortionately paid.

Miss Anthony's Birthday, Never to mention a lady's age being one of the principles upon which these letters are written, it would ill become me to say whether Mlss Susan B. Anthony were fifty or fifteen. She is certainly not more than the one and not less than the other. At any rate her birthday comes around with the regularity of most people's, and will be celebrated next Tuesday evening at her residence, No. 49 Kast Twenty-third street. Though not possessing the enchanting loveliness of form and feature which characterizes other members of the ci-devant Woman's Suffrage Association, Susan is quite as graceful in social life as Middy Morgan or Madame Anneke. She intends to give a reception to all the readers of the Revolution. The report that Miss A. was about to be married is utterly untrue. She is a glorious old girl, and will remain so until the day of her death, when she is translated into a higher sphere, where male and female angels have equal rights. Madame Patti-Caux, before her marriage, explained, in answer to impertment rumors, that she was "bethrothed only to art." It may similarly be said of Miss Anthony that she is "betrith" only to politics, and I don't think they'll ever sue her for breach of promise.

Buchs in Harness.
Dr. Helmboid, family, and friends have been availing themselves of the sleighing season, and his really magnificent team has been attracting unusual attention along Broadway. I am always willing to give the doctor a gratultous notice as often as possible, for it is sure to bring forth a presentation bottle of buchu in return.

Beautiful Brokeresses.
"Who is Mrs. Claffin?" is the question incessantly asked of whomsoever it is suspected a satisfactory answer can be obtained. Rumor says that she is identical with a certain Miss Tennessee who used to be remarkable as a medium. The Miss Tennessee whom I have any reminiscences about used a year ago to publish amazing handbills, on which were printed very bad poetry of her own composition, and an infinite number of certificates from people who professed to have been miraculously cured through her mediumship. If Mrs. Claffin, the 'beautiful brokeress," be identical with Miss Tennessee, the fortune of her and of all her partners is secured, for of course it will be infinitely easy for her to go off in a trance and foresee the price of gold at any imaginable date. I don't wonder she feels sanguine, or that her male rivals quake.

The Grande Duchesse Ball as a piece of brilliant immorality was a fraud. There was nothing about it either brilliant or Immoral. The dresses were not more decolletee than other affairs of the kind. Drunken women did not abound, and the can-can was not made the medium for the flinging of feminine heelhigher than usual. The guests were not by any means select, but they were very well behaved. Whether this was in any wise due to the presence of a large police force may be questioned. Pruriency was disappointed, and expressed itself in glumness and indignant scowls. Fools who came to gloat remained to glare. In fact, it ped, but completely cut off.

Steighing at Central Park. Sleighs have been introduced at Central Park in place of the cabriola-wagonettes which have been so successful since they were first used there in the summer, and you can enjoy a good sleigh-ride there, an hour in length, for twentyfive cents. The sleighs are just as warmly appreciated as the wagons were, and the cheap-ride system may be said to be a complete success.

was a French ball with the wings not only clip-

" Punchinello." The proprietor of the new weekly is Mr. W. A. Steohens, formerly of Vanity Pair. He is now busy hooking all the good humorous writers in the city, and is already angling for Mr. Barber, one of the most graceful and accomplished newspaper humorists, if not the most so, in the United States. He is extremely well known among the New York journals, used to be a contributor to the Round Table, and has, indeed, published a volume of essayets, made up from those contributions, and entitled "Crumbs from the Round Table." He is the author of the letters in the Mercury signed by a "Disbanded Volunteer," and does a great quantity of miscellaneous writing to which his name is never

The Brokeresses Once More. May I be pardoned for recurring to a subject that I ought to have closed up at the time? The Gold Board and the Stock Board have made up their minds not to recognize the firm of Woodhull, Claffin & Co. They are extremely anxious to know who the man is that is going to transact their business, and are making extensive preparations to "ram" him. I pity the poor wretch. Meanwhile the firm has gone extensively into the advertising business. It has already spent thus $800, and in some cases advertised for two months in advance. This looks as if it meant to be permanent, don't it?

MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC.

The City Amusements.

AT THE ACADEMY OF MUSIC the Parepa-Rosa troupe will appear this evening in Mozart's opera of the Marriage of Figaro. This great work is very seldom given, on account of its difficulties and the number of competent artists that it requires, and to the majority of operagoers it will be an entire novelty. Madame Rosa will appear as "Susanna," and she will be supported by all the principal members of the company. The City Amusements There will be a matinee to-morrow, when

The Bohemian Girl will be given, with Madame | mer

Roea as "Arilne."
AT THE CHESSUT Miss Susan Galton will have a farewell benefit this evening, which we sincerely hope will attract a crowded house. Miss Galton is a genuine artist whom the public can but little afford to lose, and her last benefit previous to retiring from the stage ought to be substantial compliment.

The bill for this evening is an excellent one including as it does three popular pieces-The Invalid Guard, "66," and The Prima Donna of a Night.

There will be a matinee to-morrow, and on Monday Mr. Frank Mayo will appear as "Badger" in The Streets of New York.

AT THE WALNUT Mr. Edwin Adams will have a benefit this evening, when he will appear as "Robert Landry" in the drama of The

There will be a matince to-morrow, when The Marble Heart will be performed, with Mr. Adams in the role of "Raphael."

AT THE ARCH Mr. John Brougham will have a farewell benefit this evening. Dombey and Son will be performed, with Mr. Brougham as

Captain Cuttle. AT DUPREZ & BENEDICT'S an or tertaining programme of Ethiopian eccentricules will be Presented this evening.

At the Kleventh Street Opena House a variety of buriesques and burnt-cork comicali-ties are announced for this evening, Sievon Britz and his son will give a magical exhibition at the Assembly Building this even-

THE SENTZ-HASSLER ORCHESTRA WIll give a matince to-morrow at Musical Fund Hall. AT THE WHEATLEY DRAMATIC HALL, Fifth street, below Lombard, Miss Emilie Yates will appear this evening as "Hamlet." This lady is said to have great talent, and there is much interest felt as to her rendition of this great role. Tickets can be had at No. 718 Arch street.

The Athenaum says a new "sensational" drams, by Mr. T. W. Robertson, entitled The Nichtingale, has been produced at the Adelphi, and has shared the fate of its author's previous e-says in the same class of composition. At no period during the performance of *The Nightin-*gale was a hold obtained upon the sympathies of the audience. The spathy with which the early action of the play was regarded yielded only to amusement at the absurdity of the situations, or indignation at the actions of certain of the characters. At the fall of the curtain, accordingly, the manifestations of a majority of the audience were expressive of dislike or derision. That a man who can write such comedies as Caste and School should produce a work which, like The Nightingale, has scarcely any dramatic significance, seems at first incredible. The same night that witnessed the downfall of The Nightingule saw the 300th performance of one of Mr. Robertson's comedies, which for a year has held undisputed possession of the stage-a circumalmost, if not quite, unprecedented in heatrical annals.
